

Police at "Triple Murder" Where No One Is Shown.

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—The ouija board sent the entire city detective force, in addition to patrolmen from the Allegheny Station and Deputy Coroners, to No. 607 Avery Street yesterday following telephone messages from Mrs. Bertha Henry that three persons had been murdered at that address. When the detectives arrived they found everything quiet, no one being in the house. A few minutes later Mrs. Henry, who lives on the second floor of the house, returned. She admitted sending the telephone calls and volunteered to lead the officers to the scene of the triple murder. She led the police to the third floor, where four vacant rooms were found. "Here's the place," she whispered apologetically, but there were no bodies, not even furniture. Mrs. Henry, after being arrested, told Deputy Coroner Hugh Dempsey that the ouija board had told her of the "triple murder."

Clydecloth

Worsted Suits for Men

at $40

Clydecloth suits, exclusive with Franklin Simon & Co., are made of worsted knit fabric, quite durable, which tailors genially, and has just a suggestion of cling that makes it more amenable in the fit. Tailored in a two-piece sport model, English lines, with patch pockets, it is an all-around suit with an in-between usefulness.

Originated and introduced by THE MEN'S SHOPS—as usual.
